Her name was Hedwig Nitsche. Portions of the woman's ody that were cut off were carried away by the brutal murderer. Blood was spattered all over the ceiling and walls of the room, and the murder seems to have been the work of a madman. Several suspects, arrested during the day, had to be released for lack of proof. The body of the woman was nearly severed, and was ripped from the neck downward. It seems that another woman tried to enter the room before the awful crime was committed. Her attempt disturbed the assailant, who suddenly rushed out, pushing aside several persons who were in his way. The inmates of the house were awakened by their screams and the un-

UNHAPPY RUSSIA

More Anti-Jewish Riots-Popular Com-plaints Made Against the Czar. St. Petersburg Oct. 25.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] The anti-Jewish riots at Starodoub arose from the per ple's resentment of the action of the municipal authorities in granting permission to Jews to open their shops on Sunday. In the midst of the riot a Jew struck a young Russian and the report was spread that the latter had been killed. This greatly increased the fury of the populace. The rabble looted a number of wine shops and many became drunk. Suddenly fire broke out in the Jewish quarter. The mob prevented the fire brigade from getting to work, and ten houses were destroyed. The mob continued the work of pillage until a late hour in the night.

How the Thunderer Views the Baltimore

LONDON, Oct. 25 .- By Cable and Asociated Press.] The Times, referring to the Baltimore affair at Valparaiso says: "It is clear that a brutal outrage was committed, and the Washington Government has a good prima facie case to demand satisfaction. But the time has not yet come when such a demand could properly be pressed. If made now, it would be made in hot blood and based upon incomplete infor-mation. It is not for a great and powerful nation like the United States to deal in this high handed fashion with a weak neighbor; Arguing that Chile is recovaring from a régime of bad government, the attack on the Baltimore's sailors is as an act in the same drama. America's strong aggressive policy will tend to enhance the difficulties, the government having already hard enough work to main-tain law and order.

Taking Off the Southern Pacific Train Agents.

Another Quick Trip to the Atlantic Seaboard. Over Fifty Miles an Hour for Nearly Nine Hours.

A Plum for a Passenger Agent-A Railroad for Sale-General, Local and Personal Men-

The New York Central has put on the fast local train between New York and Buffalo which is being much talked of nowadays. The exact schedule time is 8 hours and 40 minutes for the run of falo is made in 10 hours and 38 min-utes, or about forty-two miles an hour. The Royal Blue line, the Baltimore and Ohio flyer between New York and Washington, makes the 220-mile run in 5 hours, or forty-four miles an hour. Pensylvania trains cover the ninety miles between New York and Philadel miles between New York and Philadelphia in 2 hours—a forty-five-mile-anhour speed. Those are the present fastest scheduled runs, except on the forty-mile track between Baltimore and Washington. There it is made in 45 minutes—a rate of 58 miles an hour. But the run is short, and the fity-mile schedule on the New York Central for a stretch of nearly nine hours is a decided

ANOTHER PAST RUN TO NEW YORK. It is becoming quite the thing to make rapid runs across the continent. Mrs. J. C. Flood and party started from San J. C. Flood and party started from San Francisco for New York Saturday night in the special car Grassmere, brought there from the East for their service, and will make a very fast trip to the Atlantic coast. It is the intention of Mrs. Flood to equal the time made by John W. Mackay and Miss Virginia Fair, who made a journey to New York in 4 days, 12h. 30m. All the arrangements for this fast trip have been made ments for this fast trip have been made by C. C. Crane, general agent for the Vanderbilt lines in San Francisco. The car Grassmere is one of the finest pri-vate coaches that ever ran across the continent. It is the only car lighted with gas that ever came to San Francisco. It is provided with a cook and fine kitchen and dining service, besides having special waiters and porters.

WITH A CARLOAD OF GIRLS. Pessenger agents do sometimes run against a picnic in the course of business. The Washington correspondent ness. The Washington correspondent of the Public Ledger says in a recent letter: "The Pennsylvania Railroad seems to have added a new branch to the general business of transporting passengers, and one which is likely to be of great service to parents whose daughters are sent-to distant cities to school. A young ladies' seminary in this city yesterday received by the Pennsylvania Railroad a consignment of twenty girls, who came from the Northwest by special car, in charge of Edward Q. Cortner, one of the traveling agents of the company. The girls are from different sections of the Northwest, and were delivered to the railroad company at Chicago—several of them being accompanied by their parents—were brought here with neatness and dispatch, and delivered at the seminary to which they were consigned."

SOUTHERN PACIFIC TRAIN AGENTS. The train agent system inaugurated some months ago by the Southern Pacific Company entitled "An act to increase passenger receipts," is not dead, but is dying fast, and within a few weeks the old order of things will be resumed, says the San Francisco Call.

The force of collectors has been reduced from twenty-two to thirteen, duced from twenty-two to thirteen, these remaining agents having charge of the Southern Pacific overland trains —Nos. 19 and 20—as far south as Bakersfield, the Los Angeles express trains —17 and 18—to t.e same point, and the Oregon trains—15 and 16—as far north as Ashland. On the Central Pacific overland and several other trains the collectors have been taken off; and it seems that in discontinuing the system the company is doing just what it intended to do when the men were put on six or eight months ago. Eastern 440 miles. This is the fastest schedule time in the country for any distance exceeding an hour's run, being a fraction over fifty miles an hour. The present fastest run between New York and Buffalo is made in 10 hours and 38 minpossessed no advantages over the usual methods of collecting fares and tickets. An officer of the Southern Pacific ex-plained yesterday that this was all a

"No road," said he, "uses the collector as a permanent check on conductors. They are used rather as a temporary example. Here is the whole thing in ten words: A collector takes a run where the conductor's receipts have been $200 a day. He (the collector) runs up the returns to $250 perday, and keeps this up for say a month. Then the conductor is allowed to take the run again after being shown what it has paid the companyunder the collector. This comparison inspires in the conductor an ambition to keep the returns up to a notch where the collector left them."

Opening of the Winter Baseball Season.

Game Between Los Angeles and San Diego Teams.

A Victory for the Home Team by s Score of 13 to 7.

New Athletic Club's Grounds-Work Now in Progress-General Sporting Notes.

A big crowd of baseball lovers filed through the gates of the First street athletic grounds yesterday afternoon to witness the opening game of the winter season between the Tufts Lyon team of Los Angeles and the Schiller & Murtha's of San Diego. About 2000 people assembled to give the game a send off, and they did it in good shape. It wasn't a home crowd particularly, but just a good natured crowd of ball-lovers. willing to applaud every good play.
All the Los Angeles cranks were there, however.
The ladies were out in force. They filled the reserved seat chairs, and ap-plauded every play, good, bad, or in-different. The game wasn't very interesting after the fourth inning, but still, as the home team won, the crowd was well satisfied. The Los Angeles boy had Tyler in the box and Leland behind had Tyler in the box and Leland behind the bat. Tyler is the champlon ama-teur billiard player of Los Angeles, he is a fancy roller skater, and he is a first-class baseball pitcher. He can't do much execution with the bat, but his pitching arm is right in it every time. Leland put up a nice game behind the bat, and did his share toward knocking out a victory. Decker at first hase for bat, and did his share toward knocking out a victory. Decket at first base for the home team, is a professional player, and was of big help to his nine. The game opened with the San Diego boys at the bat, and the play was about even up to the fourth inning, when the home team knocked out ten runs, and from that on the victory were not in. team knocked out ten runs, and from that on the visitors were not in it. George Turner acted as umpire, and did very well, but favored the visitors somewhat. The game resulted in a vic-tory for the home team by a score of The runs by innings were as follows:

Tufts Lyon...... 0 1 1 10 0 1 0 0 2 11

Schiller & Murtha... 0 0 1 0 0 5 1 0 2 7

The new grounds are a success, and after they are completed will be as good New uniforms would, however, not be out of place for the home team.

THE LESSON OF LAST WEEK'S RACES. Last week's success at the Agricult-ural Park race track should be sufficient to convince every horseman and lover of the turf in Southern California that the people of Los Angeles will turn out if they are guaranteed an honest deal.

The meet was a success from the first day, notwithstanding the fact that a job was put up in one of the first running races which, had it succeeded, would have been the means of ning races which, and it succeeded, would have been the means of driving hundreds of people away in disgust. The scheme was for one of two horses to win, but the one selected to win the race was so far bedriving hundreds of people away in disguat. The achene was for one of two horses to win, but the one selected to win the race was so far behind when the wire was drawing near that the outside horse was about to walk away with the race, and for that reason old Treat was send in with a dash, and the public who were not on declared it a great race. The judges saw the move, however, and they were on their guard from that time on, so that it is not surprising that they captured the gang of jobbers later in the week, and by their prompt action set an example that should not be soon for gotten in this city. Horse blacklegs may be able to flourish for a time, but if the judges at every race on the Coast will follow the example set by the gentlemen who occupied the box last week such rascally doings will soon be at hing of the past.

The Los Angeles Athletic Club is hard at work on the new grounds at the corner of Seventh and Alaméda streets, opposite the electric power house. The club has secured seven and one-third acres of land and a gang of men have been at work for several days now. Tonight the club will let the contract for the fence, and the ground will be leveled tomorrow, so that work on the tracks may be commenced at once, and the ground will be leveled tomorrow, so that work on the tracks may be commenced at once, and the ground will be rushed up assoon as possible. The electric company will furnish hot water for the dressing rooms and will also extend a line to the main entrance so that visitors will not have to walk a block or two.

The managers are unable to tell at present when the grounds, which are to be the finest in the State, will be complete, but as soon as they are the great for the dressing rooms and will also extend a line to the main entrance so that wisitors will not have to walk a block or two.

both were to a finish and the most bloodthirsty in the audience could not find an excuse for a kick, as each round proved entertaining. One was a scientific fight from beginning to end and the other was a slogging match with the blood left out, so that all classes were blood left out, so that all classes were assigned.

THE COURTS

The Outlook in Legal Circles for the Coming Week.
With the single exception of the neutrality case, which is on trial in the United States District Court, there is lit tle of interest to be looked forward to in legal circles during the current week. Although all six departments of the Superior Court are running every day, actions to quiet title, foreclosure and condemnation sults occupy the atten-tion of the judges almost exclusively. Monday being "law and motion" day in the civil courts, is generally uneventful, and today will be no exception from the rule, unless Judge Van Dyke should render a decision in the Field-Shorb case, which is very improbable.

Everything in Readiness for the Opening Tomorrow.

Short but Interesting Exercises for the Eirst Night—The Ladies Having in Charge the Various Booths.

The third annual chrysanthemum fair opens in Simpson Tabernacle, on Hope street, between Seventh and Eighth, tomorrow evening. The ladies in charge have profited by the experience of the two previous fairs, and the result is that the present display promises to ex-ceed anything of the kind aver before attempted. The church has been beautifully decorated, and everything has been done that will add to the pleasure of visitors. The doors will open at 7:45 o'clock, and the introductory exercises will com-mence promptly at 8 o'clock. It is promised that the exercises will not last over thirty-five minutes. Gov. Markham has telegraphed that it will be impossible for him to be present, as be impossible for nim to be present, as he is detained at the capital by business. H. Z. Osborne will preside as chairman of the evening. Col. J. J. Ayres will deliver the opening address, and an original poem, "The Birth Ayres will deliver the opening and dress, and an original poem, "The Birth of the Chrysanthemum," written especially for the occasion by Mrs. Eliza A Otis, will be read by Prof. Ludlam. Miss Mollie Adelia Brown will sing a solo, and a prayer by Rev. Mr. Hutchins will close the exercises.

The interior press has so frequently asserted that the interests of San Francisco and the other cities of the State are opposed to each other, it seems marvelous that the men running the Traffic Association should blindly assent to a plan by which the interior may place obstacles in the way of San Francisco's securing fair treatment at the hands of the Southern Pacific.

pervading, the most incomprehensible nanifestation of which we have any knowledge. It seems to come next to Force, which itself, as an abstract principle, is not subject to physical omprehension at all.

Electricity is convertible into heat, light or motion. But it is not so converted unless it meets obstructions which transform a part or all its energies into other forms force. A current of electricity passing through a perfect conductor, or even through a fairly good conductor, gives no signal to our physical senses. But interpose an struction to the current, and we may quickly perceive its effects, although the current itself is intangible and invisible. A slight break in the conduc ting wire will produce a spark. Here the obstruction of the atmosphere in the line of the current turns aside a portion of the electric energy and converts it into that other form of force called light. By a proper manipulation of the current we may switch on still another portion of the energy and produce motion. Again, we may pit resistence against force until the resultant is heat sufficient to melt metal.

Now the theory inculcated by electrical science is that the mysterious omething which the earth receives from the sun, which keeps this planet in place, which warms it and lights i and makes it suitable for vegetable and animal life, comes from the central luminary in the form of electrical We have previously referred energy. to this subject in discussing "The Earth as a Dynamo," showing how the diurnal and orbital motions of our great magnet are all calculated to generate electricity. But the greatest magnet and the greatest generator of our system is the sun, around which our earth and the other planets revolve with almost in concievable rapidity. Through interplanetary medium there is established there a great system of celestial telegraphy, whose messages are trans mitted with the speed of thought, controlling every movement of our sphere as it whirls through space, and giving vitality to everything which it sustains

But this electricity which comes to us as a message of life, does not come through the great void as heat or as light, both of which are subordinate manifestations. It comes through a perfect conductor, and, there being no obstructions to switch off and convert any portion of it into other forms of energy, there is neither light nor heat in the great void. Only when this volume of electricity reaches the outer rim of the earth's atmosphere does it encounter resistance. This resistance at first is very slight, as the outer atmosphere is extremely attenuated. But, in approaching the earth, the atnosphere becomes more and more dense, more and more of an obstruction, and more and more of the mysterious element is thereby converted into light and heat. Experiment has shown that, at a height of 14,282 feet above the surface of the earth, the atmosphere has only one-half of the density that it has at the surface. The general law is that as the height increases in an arithmetical ratio as, 1, 2, 8, 4, 5, etc., the weight, and consequently the density or pressure, decrease in a geometrical ratio 14, 14, 14, 1-16, etc. The most trustworthy evidence of the height of the atmosphere is that obtained by calculations on the laws of refraction, which fix the extreme truces of atmospheric air at forty miles above the earth's surface. Now, as the atmosphere decreases in density proportionately with altitude, or distance from the earth's surface, so also do both heat and light decrease.

Capt. Abney, of the Royal Society, England, demonstrated by measure-ment that the light of the atmosphere at the altitude of one and a half miles but from one-tenth to one-twentieth as great as at the surface of the earth. At a little over three miles the sun appears no brighter than our moon. At a height of four miles, the sun's rays are too weak to produce the rainbow colors of the solar spectum. Flammarion says: "Outside the atmospheric envelope of all spheres, there is only the black of infinite space." It is equally well demonstrated that the temperature of the atmosphere diminished 1° for every 300 or 400 feet gained in altitude. According to Paullet, the temperature of the outer-most limits of our atmosphere is about 230° below zero, which he thinks is the same as that of the interplanetary space beyond. Others have estimated the temperature of outer space at hundreds or millions of degrees below zero. We are bound to accept the conclusion, in any event, that the climate on the outside is very chilly. But the philosophers of the old school ask us to believe that the sun actually radiates heat and light-on the same principle that a glaring fire radiates them-though such an absolutely dark and such an inconceivably cold medium, and yet that the medium itself is neither lighted nor warmed. The idea seems irreconcilable with natural prin-

Let us rather accept the doctrine that the sun telegraphs its energy over the celestial cable and that light and heat are made for us within our own atmosphere.

LEON III.

Few persons here are aware of the intimacy once existing between the late Emperor of France and Col. Blanton Duncan. Observing a splendid likeness of the Emperor in his parlor, a friend asked him where he obtained it.

"Why, from the Emperor, who, one day, wrote his name, as you see, upon it, and asked me to keep it as a souve nir, picking it up from his table in the private bureau, wherein he was enter-

AT THE CHURCHES.

Bishop Haygood at the First Methodist Church.

A Powerful and Eloquent Discourse Delivered Yesterday Morning.

Rev. Dr.Cantine Given a Cordial Reception Last Evening.

ervices at the Temple Street Christian Church, Immanuel Church and the First Presbyterian Church-Y. M. C. A. Meeting.

Bishop Haygood of the Methodist Church, South, preached the morning ermon yesterday at the First Methodist Church, taking for his text: Finally, my brethren, be strong in the the Lord and in His might." It was a powerful discourse, as all the Bishop's sermons are, and created a profound impression on the large congregation.

The world generally is antagonistic to Christianity. The creature man is satisfied to do his own thinking, his own planning, to be his own ruler make his own laws-in a word to live without God. The enemies of Christianity are largely in the spirit. The Bible teaches the doctrine of a personal and the Bishop expressed devil, himself very positively on this point, holding to an absolute belief in this doctrine of an evil spirit beyond the region of the five senses—a mighty, but not an amplication of the five senses—a mighty, but not a promise the spirit lead in reof the five senses—a mighty, but not an omnipotent, spirit, limited in re-sources, ripe in experience. If the Bi-ble story of a personal devil is purely figurative, then that places it in a much stronger light, for the Bible uses figura-tive language for clearness, vividness and power of statement—never for or-nament. The fact in Bible rhetoric always counts for more—far more—than the figure used to represent it; there-fore, if the Bible description of a devil is used figuratively, then the doctrine of a personal devil is intensified. He pictured the Christian warrior, encased in his spiritual armor, going forth to do battle, and the figure culminated in the one grand, mighty scene—"having done all to stand."

DR. CANTINE LAST EVENING. The announcement that Rev. Dr. Cantine, the former pastor of the church, would preach in the evening was sufficient to draw a congregation which filled every portion of the auditorium and the Sunday-school annex beyond.

TEMPLE STREET CHRISTIAN CHURCH. Rev. A. C. Smither preached yesterday morning to a large an appreciative audience at the Temple Street Christian Church on the the subject "Heart Trouble—Its Cure," based upon the fourteenth chapter of John, verses 1-3. This is a world epidemic; it has cursed every age; it has reached and touched every age; it has teached and concluded every nation; it has always preyed upon the vitals of men and sapped their vitality. Its causes are as various almost as human character, and they originate from every conceivable source. They come from blasted hopes, from death. The disappointment, from death. The apostles of our Master were troubled with it and the Savior prescribed a cure for the trouble. At the feet of this great Master we may learn this lesson as well as others. He dwelt upon the source of this trouble and the comfort-faith in God and Jesus also.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH Yesterday was communion day at the First Presbyterian Church. A large audience was present, and some very beautiful singing was rendered by the choir. A number of persons were received into the church by letter, and

Rev. Dr. Stewart preached a very interesting and effective sermon, taking as his text: 1 John. iv, 18—

'There is no fear in love, for perfect love casteth out fear'. 'Twas harder than poverty, rougher than love casteth out fear"

Dr. Stewart maintained the idea that no two quantities of matter can occupy the same space at the same time; hence love and fear cannot dwell together, or exist in unity. There is bended, And it flapped on the wall like a banner of natural fear, and fear from a sense of natural fear, and fear from a sense of quiet, but love is stronger than either. Moral fear is an enemy to the soul, salvation is for the lost, redemption for the saved. God has a use for fear as well as love, for pain as well as joy. He uses them all in their place, but does He uses them all in their place, but does not indorse them all as good. Fear and pain are used to arouse men to a sense of their danger. Pain is for the body, fear for the soul. Fear cannot be religion, it is the child of sin; it is something to be cast out. As guilt is the cause of fear, forgiveness and

Yesterday morning Rev. Dr. Chichester preached a unique birchday sermon, taking for his text Pharaph's question to Jacob, "How old art thou?" and Jacob's answer, "Few and evil have the days of the years of my life been." The Doctor said that while in some respects this answer of Jacob gives a wise and just estimate of the average human life, it nevertheless seems doleful and pessimistic. For as he thus human life, it nevertheless seems doleful and pessimistic. For as he thus speaks of his days being "few and evil," we are somehow reminded by it of what Shakspeare's great character once said—the man whose life had been blackened by a great crime, and who cried out in his despair:

Life's but a walking shadow
It is a tale.
Told by an idiot, full of sound and fury, Signifying nothing.

And this jaundiced philosophy of Macbeth isn't to be found alone in the old drama. There are such dismal peoold drama. There are such dismal peo-ple all about us in actual life who do nothing but rail at the world—insisting upon the utter wretchedness of all things here below, and speaking of life as though it were a curse from the devil instead of a blessing from God all of which is exactly in the line of Ja-cob's gloomy testimony, when he said: "Few and evil have the days of my life been." Jacob, however, didn't always speak of his life in this morbid manner. For shortly after this when the old man came to die, the remembrauce of God's goodness overcame the remembrance of his griefs and this was his cheery faith as he gave his dying blessing to his grandson: "God, before whom my fathers did walk, the God which fed me all my life long, the angel which re-deemed me from all evil, bless the lads." In other words he still recognized the evil in his life, but he rejoiced in the God who redeemed him from it all. And so there must be evil in every human life—the evil of sin every human life—the evil of sin and of sorrow and of death. Do what we will, we can't laugh life's evil down nor philosophize it away. For there it is, a great black shadow o'er us all. But with Jacob's unfaltering faith we may be divinely redeemed from life's evil. We may trample it in the dust and rise above it and be more than conquerors through Him who loved us all. The sermon was unusually forcible, and what made it so appropriate was the fact that just beappropriate was the fact that just be-fore the morning service Dr. Chichester went into the Sabbath-school, and with a neat little speech, dropped his forty-two nickels into the birthday box— greatly to the young people's delight.

The delegates to the recent State convention were present at the meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association yesterday. Messrs. F. M. Porter, E. S. Field and W. H. Mead gave brief reports of the convention and set forth the importance and magnitude of the work here and elsewhere.

The good news was announced that work on the gymnasium would be commenced at once and pushed to completion. Tonight occurs the regular Monday evening gospel meeting and tomorrow evening the reception to the young people of all the churches in the city. Rev. J. S. Dill will give a short address upon "Christ the model worker," and the balance of the evening will be devoted to music recitations refresh voted to music, recitations, refresh-ments and a social time generally.

I'm used to being knocked around, and I'm used to seeing knocked around, and I'm used to seeing everybody else knocked around. Your turn will come some day. You ain't a bit better than I am. The whole country's going to the devil as fast as it can go. Been going to the devil for years and years. There ain't any chance for a man to amount to anything here, and it's not worth while for him to try. Every man's doing what he can to down very other man, and it doesn't make much difference which comes out on top. The fellow that gets on top generally stay sthere, * and the poor on top. The fellow that gets on top generally stay sthere, and the poor devils that are under can squirm and squirm and it won't do them any good. They've got to stay there and—'' is something to be cast out. As guilt is the cause of fear, forgiveness and love must rise up and take absolute possession. The domain of love is to be universal. Love is contending for the mastery and there are no other contending occupants but shall surrender to love. A small house can contain many friends, but there is no house large enough to hold two enemies. So we can readily see how love is the fulfilling of the law. All perfect law is love, and works freely. It is not for the hope of reward, nor the fear of punishment that a mother cares for her little children, but it is love and unconconscions and unselfish devotion.

The useless, the dangerous, and the lawless are the expensive classes of society. Lift the whole world to a level, where love can reign, and nother law would be needed; the righteous would not need to be taxed, to govern the ungodly. It is in common life that the warmness of love to children and home and friends is best felt, it is then that the bondage of fear is left behind. Love conquers pain, is triumphant over sword and death, it is the stroffgest tie that binds, it conquers when all else fails.

The solution of the whole is, that God

Burg Grubb, minister to Spain, to a beautiful young Scotch woman, whom he wooed and won at Madrid, is to be a he wooed and won at Madrid, is to be a decididly spectacular affair. There sailed with Gen. Grubb on the steamer Normandia for Southampton last Thursday six young men, all members of that famous Philadelpl.ia cavalry organization, the City Troop. These young men are to act as ushers at the wedding, arrayed in all the splendor of the magnificent uniform, which is the pride of their troop, and the most elaborate worn by any military company in the United States. It is of white, scarlet and silver, with high boots and silver helmets, surmounted by enormous bearskin crescents, and in general magnificence is exceeded by but few uniforms in Europe. Gen. Grubb is an excaptain of the City Troop, he having resigned at the time he was running for Governor of New Jersey. With his manly form arrayed in his captain's uniform and six masculine beauties to back him up, the wedding ceremony should be long remembered by Edinburgh society.

An Elopement Followed by the Arrest of One of the Parties. DENVER, Oct. 25.—[By the Associated Press.] W. H. Burges, traveling agent of a furniture company of Cleveland, O., arrived this morning and secured the arrest of C. E. Stem, ex-paying teller of the National Exchange Bank teller of the National Exchange Bank of Cleveland, on a charge of eloping and living in adultery with his wife, Cora Burges. Stem has been here three weeks and admits that he has lived with the woman, but denies that he eloped with her. They left Cleveland together on September 29, coming direct to Denver. Stem declares that Mrs. Burges left here four days ago for Seattle, where she has a sister. Burges believes that she is hiding in Denver and he will endeavor to find her. In any event he will prosecute Stem. cute Stem.

What they were doing in Mexico at the time is were doing in Mexico at the time is not definitely known, but the American consul at Matamoras is making a thorough investigation. weight champion of Wisconsin, was knocked out today by Joe Tansy of Memphis in five rounds. The fight took place at Allenton. Washington county, and was for $250.

In the first round Tansy landed a soaker on Kinney's jaw. The latter fell and was down thirteen seconds, but there was such a hubbub among the spectators that the call of time could not be heard.

Tansy continued to punch his man until the fifth round, when another blow in the neck sent him to grass and he could not respond to the call.

Early Chichks and Their Food—Dry, Hard Food the Best. [Farm and Fireside.]

Cracked corn, wheat screenings, hay seed, or anything that the chicks will eat, may be given them. It is a practice with some to feed corn meal in the shape of dough, and such food is excellent as a portion of the ration, but not as an exclusive food. If the corn read snape or dough, and such food is excellent as a portion of the ration, but not as an exclusive food. If the corn-meal dough is first cooked as a bread it will be more wholesome, and the mess will be improved in quality if the meal is mixed with milk instead of with water. Chicks should never be fed much sloppy food. Dry, hard food is more suitable for them, and a luxury for them will be a mess of lean meat cut up fine in a meat-cutter. For green food for chicks, the clover leaves from barn sweepings, scalded, is excellent, and mashed potatoes will be highly relished. Keep little chicks busy all the time by inducing them to work at scratching for seeds. Exercise is very important in raising chicks, as it serves to prevent leg weakness, promotes appetite and renders them less liable to bowel disease.

POULTRY PAYS.

[Exchange.]

Often the farmer inquires if it will pay him to keep fowls; is their any money in the business? That question cannot be answered either yes or no to fit every case. We have all seen large flocks kept on a farm at a very doubtful profit, and we have also seen a flock of a few fowls kept at a neat profit. We insist that it depends on the man rather than on the fowls. The best of fowls kept on the hit-and-miss plan will not be profitable, while very ordinary fowls, under proper care, will keep the family in groceries at the village store. The first thing for any one to decide upon before purchasing a lot of fowls for the farm or for any other place is: Are you willing to give them as good care as you do your other stock? Do you intend to make it a business or will you let the fowls have their own way, go where they please, roost where they please, and eat what they please? You can tell whether poulry keeping will pay or not when you determine what you propose to do about it. The fowls are in a sense machines, and the work they do will depend quite as much on you as on them.

The magnitude of the building operations

The magnitude of the building operations now going on at Jackson Park can be surmised from the fact that an average of from thirty-five to forty carloads of construction material arrives daily. The exposition buildings are rising with wonderful rapidity.

The women of Illinois, who have the spending of $80,000 of the $100,000 which the State appropriated for its representation at the exposition, have been granted, for their exclusive use, one-tenth of the space in the Illinois building, which, altogether, is something more than an acre and a half. The women will make a separate exhibit.

This is one of the most product. This is one of the most pleasant occupations in the world for a person of advanced age or infirm health. The labor is light and very interesting. There are many canons in this pass that will make splendid bee ranches, and we expect ere long to see them all occupied. It is a business that a delicate woman can run and the worlds are not to be an run, and the profits are not to be despised, as an apiary of 200 stands of bees will net in the neighborhood of $1000 in a fair season. Mr. Jost and Mr. Mackey are our most prominent bee men, and they will doubtless be glad to answer any questions relative to the rise and fall of the bee in the pass.

Goes further than it did a year ago; moderate profits has made a great change in this respect. The increase in our dress goods department is something beyond our expectations; more new hands will be placed behind our dress goods counter Monday morning; that means increased business. The largest stock of dress goods in the city selling at moderate profits; ever-ready clerks to wait on you; no obligations on your part to buy. Take a glimpse at our south show window; fall pieces of dress goods piled mountain high, and mind you, every piece is marked at a moderate profit. Watch the different packages as they are carried on the street, and you will notice the legend "W. C. C.," that means Royal Worcester Corset, or the talisman, "The Largest Cloak Department"—and that tells you where to go. It is on everybody's tongue this season that Sheward has the best stock of cloaks, and the styles are beyond doubt the very choicest. No baits are held out but moderate profits on cloaks, and on the very finest ones as well as the cheapest. "RUM, ROMANISM AND REBELLION."

Rev. Dr. Burchard's Side Partne Tells the Whole Story.

How the Presidency was Lost and Won by a Single Phrase.

Blaine was Blameless, but Inevitably Bound to Suffer.

ing Toward Him-Burchard and Maria Halpin-Where the Purity Question Comes in-And the Moral of the Whole

Rev. Dr. Burchard, churchman and politician, is dead. As a churchman, he will soon be forgotten even by the narrow circle that knew him, but his fame as a politician will live through the The phrase, "Rum, Roman-bellion" will always be one andmarks of American political nd will be recalled as an exnd a warning to indiscreet poliintil Presidential elections in ountry shall cease. So long as ains in this country such a the Catholic Church or the ote, Dr. Burchard's immortal will stand out as a danger sigevery pilot who undertakes to the the dangerous political waters use shores. The words were ut-with the intention of helping Mr. to the Presidency of the United tes; but it is now generally agreed tinstead of helping him to it they sived him of it. That phrase is bested to have lost the Presidential ction of 1884 for Mr. Blaine, and to secured it to Mr. Cleveland. said to have changed from Blaine to eveland several thousand Irish Cath-c votes in the State of New York, I the official figures show that a turner of less than 600 votes in the othe ction would have given Mr. Blaine Presidency, for the vote of New k State decided the election. ery rarely in the history of the world have so few words proved so owerful. And why should they have been powerful? Why should they have been powerful? Why should they have had the power to affect the election to the extent of a single vote? There is no good reason for it. On the contrary a great shame that it should be so and the fact is very discreditable to the ntelligence of the great body of voters - or rather in this particular case the body of Irish Catholic voters. Mr. Blaine was not to blame for anything that Dr. Burchard might say. He was not the parson's keeper. Yet simply because the parson in addressing Mr. Blaine had denounced the Democraric party as the party of rum, Romanism and rebellion, thousands of citizens, who must that time had been working. and rebellion, thousands of citizens, who, up to that time, had been working strenuously for Mr. Blaine's election, turned abruptly round and joined the opposition. What had Mr. Blaine done the meantime to merit this desertion Not a thing. He had not uttered a Not a thing. He had not uttered a syllable that any man could take offense at. He had no sympathy with the wild fling which the old Presbyterian clergyman took at the Catholic Church, and that fact was very well known. But some one had blundered and some one must suffer. It happened in Mr. Blaine's camp, and Mr. Blaine as the candidate had to pay the penalty. I suppose it will alpay the penalty. I suppose it will always be so. The innocent will suffer for the guilty. The unoffending candidate will have enemies raised up against him by the exertions of his foolism friends. The Bruchard incident is only a type of many others that have occurred before and will occur again. But what a lack of discrimination in the voter is argued by the possibility of such a thing! The Irish Catholics or any other body of citizens may be thinskinged. They are none the worse for The innocent will suffer They are none the worse for standed. They are none the worse for, that. Let them be ready as quick as lightning to resent any indignity offered to their religion; but let their resentment fall upon the offenders. Punish the wicked but spare the innocent!

I think I can fairly crave the privi-ege at this time of making a few re-marks about that celebrated Burchard ase Dr. Burchard's partner in the at fair; second, because I have never be-fore troubled the public with any re-marks on the subject; and third, be-cause I promise that I shall never do so again.

I was Brother Burchard's partner in the newspapers and so gave it publicity—and plenty of it.

Mr. Blaine was staying for a day or two at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York city. It was about a week before election day, 1884. The preachers of New York city and Brooklyn got up a movement to boom the Republican candidate, or rather, I imagine, the sagacious Republican politicians of that year caused this clerical demonstration to be organized. However, the movement originated, the fact remains that he preachers of the metropolis, to the number of several hundred called was appointment on Mr. Blaine pointment on Mr. Blaine hotel one fine morning about o'clock. Jewish rabbis were ell as Christian minis All branches of the Christian church were represented, curiously enough, except the Catholic Church, and before the meeting closed, a single est, all out of breath, and erspiration from his brow showing more or less ex-

I heard quite distinctly myself, and had no difficulty in making a complete shorthand note, but that was be cause I was close to the spokesman's elbow.

Mine was the only shorthand report that was made of the speech. There were several reason, for that, the principal one being that was making the report for the Associated Press, and as nearly all the newpapers which had their special representatives at the meeting would get my report, the specials did not need to bot, her with mere shorthand work. Every me waspaper man knows that that is the almest invariable practice; where speeches are to be reported the Associated Rress reports for all. Occasionally an individual paper may want a full report of a speech that the Associated Press is not reporting in full. Then that paper's special correspondent has to set to work on his own account. But on this particular occasion, although there were over a dozen, perhaps a score or more special reporters at the meeting, there was only one shorthand report. The specials paid no attention to any of the speeches except Mr. Blaine's. Old fogies like Burchard they did not think worth listening to—and on the general average they are not—besides there was no need to listen to them for reasons already stated.

When Burchard's speech was finished already stated. When Burchard's speech was finished When Burchard's speech was finished there were probably about three or four preachers, besides Mr. Blaine and myself, who knew that the great alliterative phrase had been launched. Mr Burchard was doubtless feeling proud at having delivered such a beautiful stroke of oratory. Mr. Blaine was probably at the same moment questioning himself as to what he should do about it or what, was to become of it. The other preachers who were assigned to speak probably did not care one jot to speak probably did not care one jot about Burchard's phrase even if they had heard it, except to go it one better. For myself, I had it safely recorded in my note book, and was ready for the other speeches, including Mr. Blaine's had no further business with the meet ing, so putting my note-book in my pocket I took the elevated railroad down to the office to write out my part of the report. I left behind me at the hotel, besides Mr. Blaine and the preacher, who lingered for some time, preacher, who lingered for some time, the score or so of special reporters already mentioned, and Mr. Frank Mack, my partner, of the Associated Press. Mr. Mack and I divided the work, so that while I simply reported the speeches, he attended to the gossip, descriptive work, incidents, introductory, etc., what is sometimes called, professionally, the gingerbread work.

I had just about finished transcribing my notes of the speeches, when Mr. Mack

"Are you making a full report of Burchard's speech?" he asked.
I said: "I am."

"Anything special in it?" said he.

"Very good speech," said I.

"Anything in it against Romanism?"

"There is." And I told him what it

"Ah! that accounts for it," said he suddenly, seeing a new light which was sundenly, seeing a new light which was not yet apparent to me. Then he proceeded to say: "You had hardly left the hotel when Mr. Blaine sent a message round to us (the reporters) in the room which the hotel proprietor had kindly assigned for our use. He sent his compliments to us, all, and begged that we would wait there for a few that we would wait there for a few minutes until he could extricate him-self from the preachers, and do himself the pleasure of calling upon us. We waited with pleasure, and in a short time around he came, friendly and jolly. He lost little time before starting in to query us all jointly and severally as to what kind of jointly and severally as to what kind of reports we were going to make of the meeting. He asked about the speeches; whether they would be reported in full or at all, and the specials all shouted out in chorus that they paid no attention to the speeches. They left that part of the work to the Associated Press. Then he asked for the representative of the Associated Press, and I responded. I told him in answer to his inquiries that I had no doubt you had a full note of all the speeches in, your full note of all the speeches in, your book, but that in all probability you would not give any of them in full except his own. He asked particularly about Mr. Burchard's speech, but of course I could give him no definite interests and the speech speech. formation about that. I knew very well you had gone to the office, but he was so anxious about it that he made me go around and see if I could not Romanism and Rebellion! Ha! It is well known that Mr. Blaine exercised his best judgment that morning, and although he had but a moment to deliberate, he has never since upbraided himself with having taken the wrong-course onthat occasion.

The annual fair has come and gone. It was liberally patronized by Pasadenians and the exhibitors were numerous from this place. The races attracted chief attention, and not a day passed without finding many of our people watching the flyers and backing their favorites to the full extent of their pursues. Some wan and others lost and ong their favorites to the full extension their purses. Some won and others lost, and now that it is all over it is interesting to hear the results discussed and learn how easily scores of fortunes might have been made if only the betters knew as much as they do now. While the great free-for-all trot was the chief event, the Pasadena people personally and financially were probably more interested in Fred McNally's colt Capistrano, than in any other one horse on the track. In the match race with CP Saturday afternoon Pasadena strongly herbal urday afternoon Pasadena strongly backed Capistrano, and thought they had a soft Capistrano, and thought they had a soft snapin catching even money. It is needless to recount the details of the sad sequel. The race was a farce, owing to the incomprehensible riding of the jockeys, from start to finish, and OP won hands down. To say that some of Pasadena's horsemen were surprised is putting it mildry, and the race will long be remembered as forcibly illustrating the uncertainties of the track.

The postomee during the hour the carriers window is open on Sundays is a good place to study human nature. After church time there is a rush at the window. The well regulated people form in line and patiently wait their turn. But every now and then some fresh man ignores the line entirely and makes straight for the window, there he continued to make himself heard. where he continues to make himself heard where he continues to make himself heard till waited upon. Such people are not worth getting mad at. Then there is the woman who wants to buy stamps, or get letters belonging to half a dozen people besides herself, or perhaps keep the .crowd waiting until she is told when a certain mail arrives or goes out, etc., all of which naturally irritates the patient waiters in the line, who are powerless to help themselves for lack of effective ammunition.

It is to be hoped that this winter will witness a revival of outdoor sports in Pasadena. The possibilities are boundless but for some reason the necessary amount of interest has been lacking. The driving interest has been lacking. The driving park should be put in shape and a series of races arranged. The Athletic Club should secure some permanent site for outdoor grounds and fit tu p for the cultivation of all kinds of sports. There ought to be a baseball nine organized and a polo club got together. Business is business, but in the pursuit of everyday duties care should be taken to avoid becoming too prosy. As a community Pasadena should be asake and active to provide for the enjoyment of pleasurable pastimes. Hundreds of visitors will spend the winter here and it will prove a paying investment to entertain them well in the direction above indicated, to say nothing of the pleasure and advantages the residents themselves will derive.

The attendance was unusually large, over a hundred women being present.

The meeting opened with a short song service, after which there was a reading from scripture and prayer by Rev. Dr. Shepherd. Secretary George Taylor then delivered the principal address of the meeting, detailing the work done at the recent State convention of the association held at Sacramento. Mr. Taylor, in an interesting manner, outlined the programme of the convention and quoted numerous statistics, illustrating the growth of the association in California and the great good that is being effected thereby. Reference was also made to the fact that the next annual meeting of the State association will be held in Pasadeña.

THE BICYCLE CASE.

Before Justice Rose on Saturday afternoon was tried the case of Bicyclist Hunt of Pasadena versus Bicyclist Abell of Los Angeles. Yesterday a week ago, Abell and a party of friends pushed their machines to Pasadena for an afternoon spin. They left their wheels "stacked on Colorado street. Soon after Hunt came along and stacked his "ordinary" up against the "safeties" ridden by the visitors. He was requested to remove it, and upon his refusal to do so, the wheel was kicked, pushed or otherwise deposited on the street and the result was a broken handle bar. Hunt, therefore, brought suit to recover damages. Attorney Hahn represented the plaintiff and Judge Hester looked after the interests of the defendant. After four witnesses had been heard on either side, Mr. Hahn moved that the case be dismissed, the plaintiff failing to prove that there had been a malicious intent on the part of Mr. Abell to injure the machine. Unless the Supervisors are More Libera in the Matter of Saloon Licenses This Will be Done-General News Notes.

There is a growing sentiment in Ventura there is a growing sentiment in ventura in favor of incorporating as a city of the sixth class and taking control of the saloon license matter without interference from the county. It is very probable that this will be done if the Supervisors at the November session do not rescind the ordinance passed at their last meeting, which appropriates the full amount received from appropriates the full amount received from the town saloons. A city government as proposed, will be very much more complete than the present town incorporation, and a great many are in favor of calling an election in any event to carry out that object. It would provide for a city council, a Mayor, a police magistrate and some other innovations, not now indulged in, and would, it is thought, add much more to the importance of the town. The increase in saloon licenses would more than pay for the increased expense.

Practical Joke Played on a Well-known Pauls thirty-live.

Were recently organized under the new law.

The new bank building will be ready for occupancy about the middle of December. The stone work will be finished the coming week, and carpenters are now busy on the interior. Staire Bros. willoccupy the front of the upper story and W. H. Wilde and Barnes & Silby each will have suits of of the upper story and week and a well-known teacher, who has been in the ring more times than he has fingers and toes, and made Some time ago one of the wealthiest bankers in this city got it into his head he has fingers and toes, and made known his desire.

Arrangements were soon entered into and the first lesson was given. The banker worked hard, and as he is a powerful fellow he was soon able to hit a powerful blow; but he is slower than a cotton-field negro, and his teacher had no trouble in keeping out of his way, and of course did not get angry-enough to give the banker a test of his own strength, but he put up a little joke on him one day that taught the amateur

Of Interest to County Clerks. A question which will be of interest to county clerks generally in the State and to lawyers, will soon come up in the Superior Court of San Francisco the contest of Erol Goode Wright of the will of Willard C. Wright, her deceased husband. E. C. Robinson, attorney of the estate, notified County Clerk Crane esterday that it was that official's prac yesterday that it was that official's practice to allow contestants in estates to file papers, the fees therefor being deducted from the amount deposited by the proponent or the petitioner for the probate of the will. It is claimed that the clerk has no right to draw upon this fund for papers filed by the contestants, and the estate will resist it.

Babe-Spreng. F. L. Babe and Miss Clara M. Spreng were married yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the First Presbyterian Church, Boyle Heights, Rev. Mr. Young, the pastor, officiating.
